

Local News

HOME NEWS BUSINESS SPORTS OPINION ENTERTAINMENT MULTIMEDIA

Mansion in Norwich awaits new life as bed and breakfast

By Claire Bessette

Publication: The Day

Published July 07, 2014 4:00AM

Tim Cook/The Day

Natalie Huey Min Lee of Norwich describes what drew her to purchase a 19th-century mansion on Broadway in Norwich as she walks through the sun room last week. Lee plans to transform the mansion into a bed and breakfast.

Tim Cook/The Day

The mansion on Broadway in Norwich that would be turned into a bed and breakfast under the plans of Natalie Huey Min Lee.

Reader Comments

billkenny

Posted: July 8, 2014 3:29 pm

What a terrific story on a brilliant idea!
For how long has talk in Norwich been about 'using historic tourism as an engine of economic development'??
Too Long!

Thank you Ms. Lee for taking one small step for Bed and Breakfasts on Broadway, one GIANT leap as the start of a way ahead here in the Rose of New England!

Norwich Resident

Posted: July 8, 2014 8:45 am

This is great news! I think she is smart to utilize a tourism opportunity that does not focus on casino patrons. Her background proves she has the reputation for success. Naming it after her parents is respectful.

Anyone spending $800 at the Otis Library book sale is ok in my book! (Pun intended)

All the best, Natalie Lee!

deanaldenmorse

Posted: July 7, 2014 8:30 am

The transformation to a B & B would be a great thing for the area. I hope that this lady gets all the help and cooperation from the City of Norwich to assist her in this most worthwhile quest. In this business challenging environment, it does not sound easy to fulfill all of the requirements and regulations to open a business of this nature.

Bill House

1856 - 2015

Mount Crescent House

This historical house, the Bill House (c.1856), was restored & designed by Maya Lin in 1986 during her graduate year at Yale.

On March 20, 2014, the house was renamed as Mount Crescent House;
In memory of new owner's parents.

岱月楼

Maya Lin

Designer

Maya Ying Lin is an American architectural designer and artist who is known for her work in sculpture and landscape art. She is best known as the designer of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, D.C.

Wikipedia

Born: October 5, 1959 (age 54), Athens, OH

Artwork: Vietnam Veterans Memorial, Wave Field, More

Education: Yale School of Architecture, Yale University

Awards: Twenty-five Year Award, AIA Honor Award

Structures

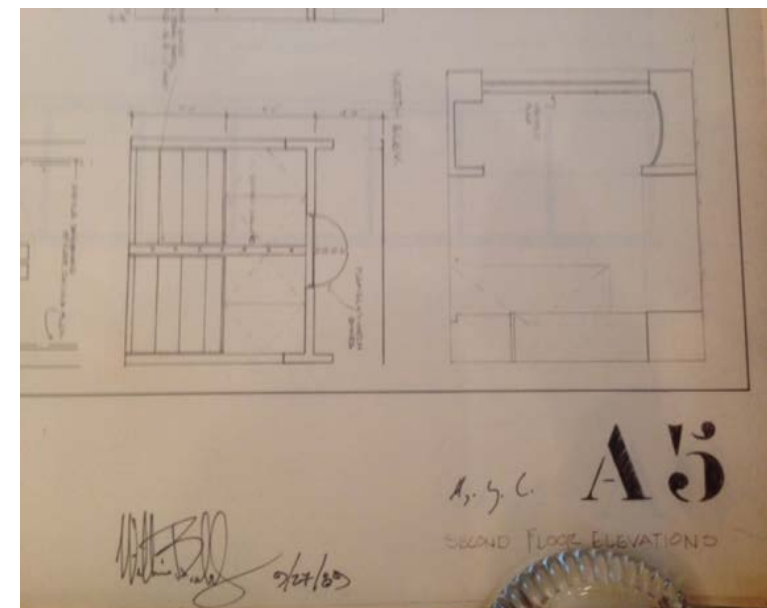

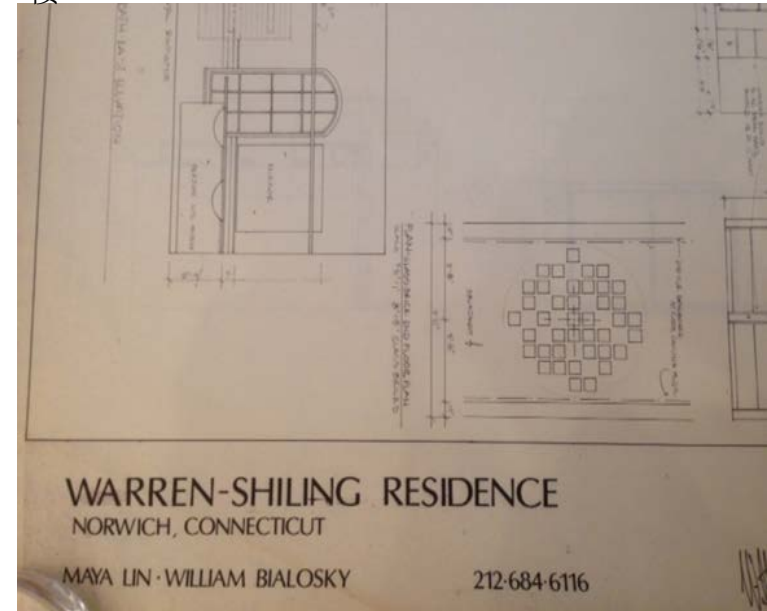

Vietnam
Veterans
Memorial

Civil Rights
Memorial

Museum of Chinese in America

Library

Living Room

Parlor

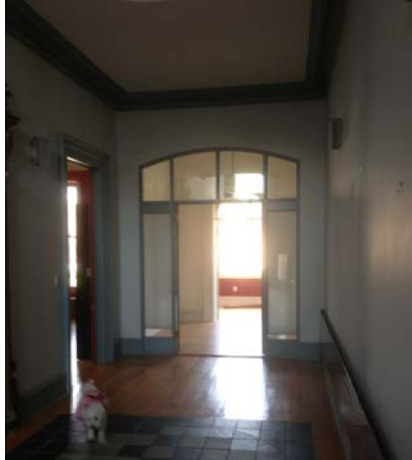

FORMAL DINING ROOM

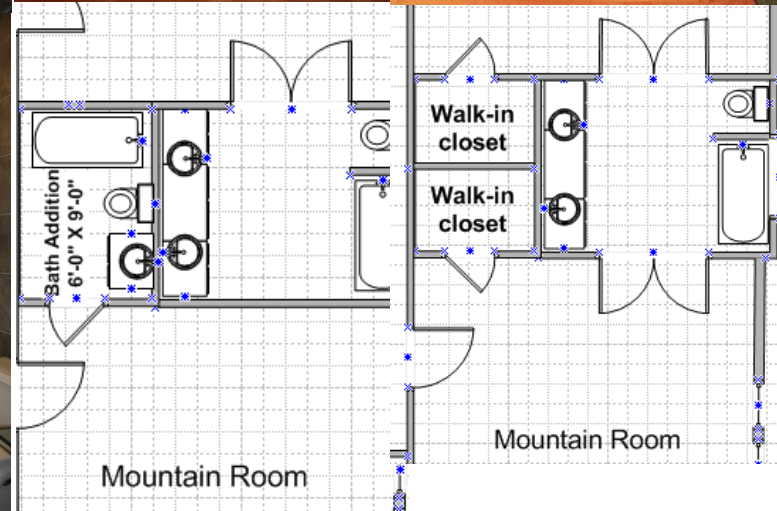

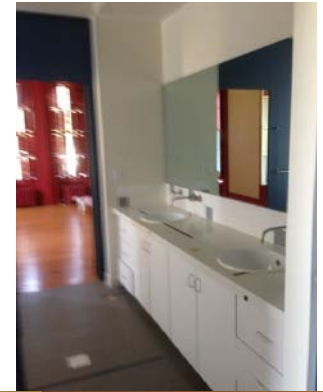

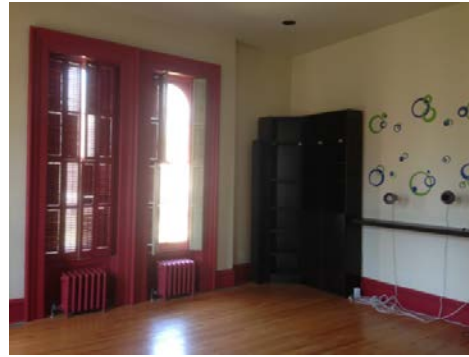

Breakfast Room

Rose Room

Mountain Room

Crescent room

Spring Room

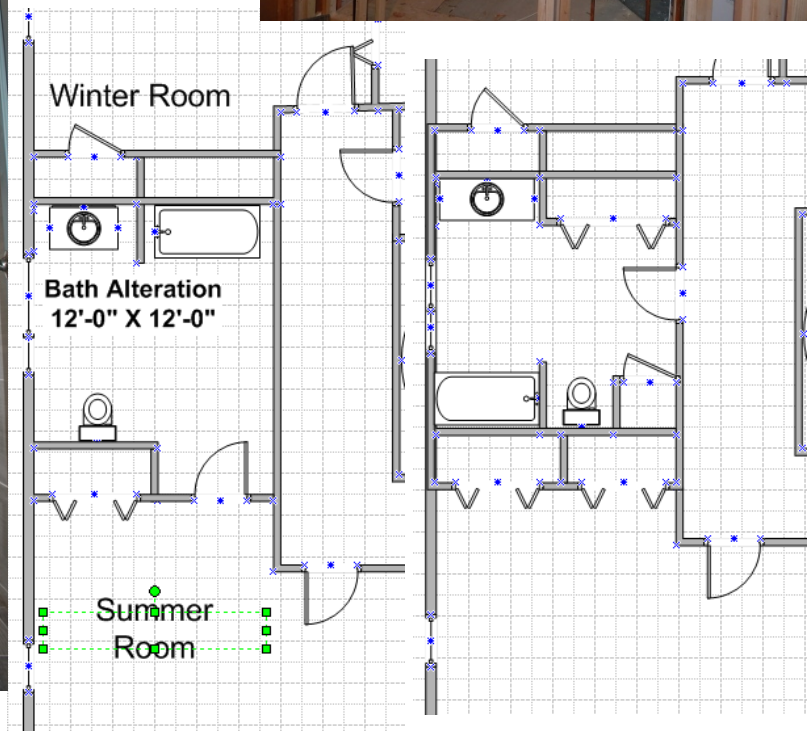

Summer Room

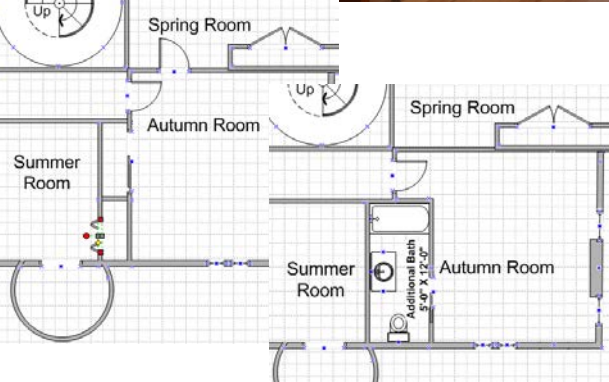

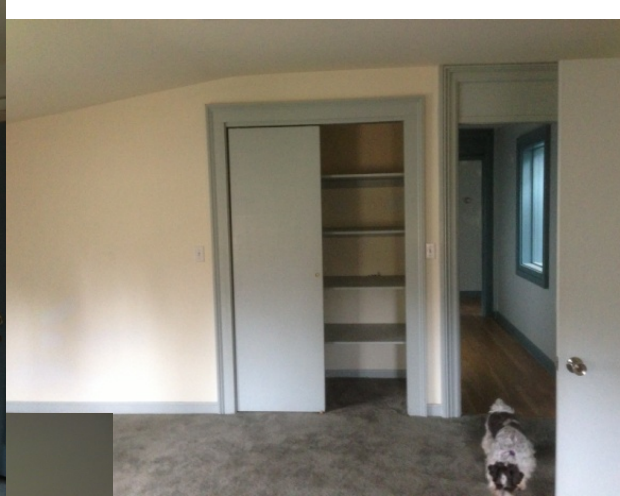

Norwich Harbor

Summer Room bath alteration

Autumn Room Mohegan Tribe

Winter Room

